

Zero the Hero Arrives on the Hundredth Day of School

Kindergarten had a special visitor when the 100th day of school FINALLY arrived! Zero the Hero had been mysteriously leaving a red bag for kindergarten every tenth day of school with a silly poem and a math activity. How does that super hero know what we are studying in math every time, anyway? ☺ Zero the Hero came flying in to our room, spreading O's everywhere on the 100th day of school- February 14! He was dressed in a red cape, a mask, and a white shirt with a big red zero. He told us how much he LOVES the number zero. Zero the Hero helped us count to 100, he gave us a 100 day crown and our favorite part- he gave us doughnuts shaped like the number 0 and decorated for Valentine's Day. After Zero the Hero zoomed off to find some more zeros, we did all kinds of fun center activities using the number 100 for the rest of the morning.
